Jing'an Temple Travel Guide

Overview
Jing'an Temple is one of Shanghai's oldest and most significant Buddhist temples, dating back to the Three Kingdoms period (220-280 AD). Located in the heart of Shanghai's modern Jing'an District, it represents a fascinating contrast between ancient spirituality and contemporary urban life.

Location & Transportation
- Address: 168 West Nanjing Road, Jing'an District, Shanghai
- Nearest Metro: Jing'an Temple Station (Lines 2, 7, and 14) - Exit 8 is closest to the temple
- Bus Routes: Multiple buses stop nearby including routes 15, 40, 45, 93, 94, 104, 113, 127, 328, 738, 824, 830, 837, 925, 927, 936, 941

Opening Hours & Admission
- Opening Hours: 7:00 AM - 5:00 PM daily
- Admission Fee: Approximately ¥50 (subject to change; free for children under 1.3m and seniors over 70)
- Temple Donation: Optional donations accepted at the entrance

Key Attractions
1. Main Hall (Mahavira Hall): Houses the magnificent statue of Sakyamuni Buddha
2. Bell Tower & Drum Tower: Traditional temple structures with ceremonial bells and drums
3. Jade Buddha Pavilion: Features exquisite jade Buddha statues
4. Ancient Well: A historic well dating back centuries
5. Temple Gardens: Serene courtyards with traditional Chinese landscaping

Visitor Tips
- Best Time to Visit: Early morning (7-9 AM) or late afternoon (3-5 PM) to avoid crowds
- Dress Code: Modest clothing is recommended; shoulders and knees should be covered
- Photography: Generally permitted in outdoor areas, but check signs for restrictions in indoor halls
- Etiquette: Remove hats when entering halls, walk quietly, and respect prayer areas
- Nearby Attractions: Jing'an Park, Plaza 66 shopping mall, Kerry Centre, and the vibrant Nanjing Road shopping district

Practical Information
- Language: English signage is available, but having key phrases in Chinese helpful
- Facilities: Restrooms, small souvenir shop, and tea house on-site
- Accessibility: The temple has ramps and elevators for visitors with mobility needs

Getting There from Major Locations

- From Pudong International Airport: Take Metro Line 2 to Jing'an Temple Station (~1 hour)
- From Hongqiao Airport/Train Station: Take Metro Line 2 directly to Jing'an Temple Station (~25 minutes)
- From The Bund: Take Metro Line 2 westbound to Jing'an Temple Station (~15 minutes)

Enjoy your visit to this spiritual oasis in the heart of Shanghai's dynamic urban landscape!